INQUIRY INTO
MILL BLAZEFire Marshal Investigates
Destruction of Shawinigan
Lake Lumber Co.'s Plant

Canadian Press

Duncan, B.C., Oct. 4.—An inquiry by Provincial Fire Marshal J. A. Thomas into the fire which destroyed the Shawinigan Lake Lumber Co.'s plant at Shawinigan Lake on August 10, with damage of $200,000, was held here yesterday.

"There are suspicious circumstances connected with this fire," Mr. Thomas stated after hearing evidence of H. J. Warwick, night watchman, Warwick told of friction between himself and another night watchman and said this man had left the mill a week before the fire.

Manager W. H. Munroe said the other watchman had been hired because the general public from trespassing on mill property.

The public was excluded from the courtroom when A. Walker, assistant fire marshal, began questioning Mr. Munroe about the company's finances.

Produced in court was a fuse over ten feet long, cotton gloves, a cap and a pair of socks, which Mr. J. C. Davidson, Shawinigan Lake, testified that she had discovered lying in a creek off the Shawinigan-Cobble Hill Road.

William Richards, Nanaimo, who rented a U-drive car at Nanaimo on the night previous to the fire, denied ever having been at Shawinigan Lake on the night of the fire, even though Jack Munroe, son of W. H. Munroe, manager of the company, testified that he had seen Richards on the night of the fire.

The proposed legislation did not present any more difficulties than the new legislation had done, he felt.

If the scheme could be worked out, it should be "inclusive," Mr. McVey felt. This he thought would be fair and after a few years there would be no opposition raised by those who had not been included.

W. B. Hughes-Tames, Kelowna, viewed the Old Country scheme as a complete success with the exception of the introduction of state health insurance. He agreed with Mr. McVey's plan to make the plan include everyone.

W. H. Boothroyd, Port Alberni, told of the scheme's success in his city, where wage-earners contributed 75c a month. The hospital had been able to clear off $1,800 debt and had spent $4,000 in improvements this year.

The contribution included all benefits except doctors' attendance, and the system was a question, Mr. Boothroyd stated contributors did not come to the hospital simply because they paid in. A minimum of a month's hospitalization was allowed in a year.

He explained collections were made by deductions from monthly pay cheques of mill employees. Interest was growing steadily in the scheme, he said, explaining that every May and December tickets were sold for $2, which might be purchased by anyone, and which supplied hospitalization for a year. This year $800 was derived from this source, he said.

He further explained that any small firms employing a group of persons might enter into the scheme merely by deducting the 75c monthly from the pay of each employee.

S. M. Crocker, Kamloops, told of the plan in operation there. For $12 a year any person could receive hospital and nursing treatment for all average infections. There were certain diseases which the plan did not cover, he said. Three months' hospitalization a year was allowed. He stressed the need felt in the interior for a provincial scheme. Their local plan had showed a profit every month, he reported.

President J. M. Coady, Vancouver, was in favor of the appointment of a committee to consider the scheme. He did not think the difficulties facing the introduction of state health insurance were insurmountable.

COST OF INDIGENTS
Dr. Weir, who was called to the floor at the close of the morning, spoke briefly, giving statistics in regard to the cost of indigents to the province.

Non-paying patients cost the government $1,700,000 a year, he said, and it paid out $160,000 a year in indemnity in considering insurance. The government was preparing for an inevitable contingency, Dr. Weir assured the government had realized the tremendous responsibility involved in undertaking the plan.

Clash of Views
A Convention
The dispute involves the refusal of the building trades department—reversing its recommendation of its own executive council—to seat delegates from the carpenters, bricklayers and electric workers' international unions.

SHORTER WORK HOURS
The hours of labor should be reduced to avoid the "vicious circle" of overproduction and unemployment, Colonel W. F. Axton, head of the Axton-Parker Tobacco Company, Louisville, Ky., told the convention yesterday.

"I honestly and sincerely believe the best solution of the unemployment problem yet offered is the one advanced by your worthy president, William Green, to reduce the hours of labor to the point where all who desire to work shall have that opportunity," Colonel Axton said in an address at a brief morning session of the convention.

"Now a days, because of machinery, one man can produce ten times as much as he could fifty years ago, therefore, they must have ten times as much purchasing power, for if labor produces ten times as much and can only buy back five times as much, we are going to have so-called overproduction and unemployment is sure to result," he said.

"Then purchasing power vanishes, which means more unemployment. This soon produces the vicious circle we found ourselves in two years ago."

ISLAND FRUIT MEN ORGANIZE

Duncan, Oct. 4.—A meeting of fruit and vegetable growers on Vancouver Island will be held in the Malaspina Hotel at Nanaimo on Saturday next. District meetings have been held in various parts of the island, and a call has been issued for a central meeting to discuss the new marketing legislation and to organize for action when the act becomes effective.

The meeting is being called at the instance of the Courtenay committee. The Duncan committee consist of B. Young, Kossiah, L. F. Solly, Westholmer, D. Y. Dunlop, Maple Bay, M. W. Platt, Maple Bay, and A. Peterson of Duncan, who is acting secretary. The white growers feel that they must become organized for their own protection, it having been stated that Vancouver Island producers about 50 per cent of the consumption, and that 90 per cent of this production is by Orientals.

Painful Piles

Go Quick—Prevent Cutting—

When sore and painful Piles distress and upset you, and salves give insufficient or only temporary help, and wish to avoid operation; isn't it best to at once try HEM-ROID—the internal remedy for piles?

Dr. J. B. Leonard was convinced early in his career that the cause of Piles was internal—bad circulation of blood in the lower part of the hemorrhoidal veins filled with stagnant blood—and that the right and safe way to get freedom from Pile agony was to remove the cause with an internal medicine. Immediately the doctor set to work to find a remedy. He succeeded and called his prescription HEM-ROID.

Pile sufferers everywhere are benefiting by Dr. Leonard's internal treatment so why doubt or delay longer when MacFarlane and Vancouver Drug stores and other good druggists say, "No matter what kind of Piles you have, one bottle of HEM-ROID tablets must show you the safe clean way to get rid of your pile misery or money-back."

New Gold Field Has Lawyer

G. B. Weiler of Sturgeon River About to Be Called to Ontario Bar

Written for the Canadian Press by Leslie Roberts
Jellison, Ont., Oct. 4.—Sturgeon River's "boy lawyer," Gerard B. Weiler of Mississauga, Ont., known in society circles of the gold rush town as "the judge," will leave this week-end to be called to the Ontario bar. Once he is a fully-fledged lawyer Weiler expects to hop the next train back to the scene of the rush and start his practice in earnest.

Weiler's case is one of the strange incidents of this amazing gold camp. Graduated from Osgoode Hall, Toronto, this year, but not scheduled to be called to the bar until autumn, he trekked northwest in search of a job, heard of the lure of the Sturgeon River and jumped off the train at Jellison.

He found a great gold rush under way and no one here to attend to the whereas and whatsoevers of the new mining claims. He immediately obtained quarters at the home of Station Agent August Leggett, set up a desk and started to work under the supervision of a graduated but uncalled lawyer.

"The judge" enjoyed a prosperous summer. He arrives at his desk early in the morning and seldom leaves till early the next morning. His chief trouble is lack of sleep. His task is mostly taking affidavits, but in this land where claims are being staked by hundreds and transferred in blocks of four to twelve claims, that work keeps him busy most of his waking hours.

In another week, however, a real shingle will hang from Lawyer Weiler's office door.

WOMEN ENSURE MEN FOR WAR

Daughters, Formerly Scorned, Now Held Useful to Bear Sons

By HELEN WELSHIMER
According to the dictators of several European countries that to increase their population count, the most important duty of women is to bear children.

Logical as it may seem, the interest of the divine right of dictatorship, there should be a clause in every mother's prayer entreatings the God of battle to send her sons—strong sons, tall sons, brave sons! Sons who will go marching, marching, marching off to war.

Oh, yes, girls are necessary, too. They are instruments in raising the army's quota.

RELEGATE WOMEN TO KITCHEN
There was a period during the post-war days, when women on the Continent believed they were to be elevated to a plane which would put them on a parity with men. But the Heaven they enjoyed was an interlude.

Men were weary. For so many years they had been "it" in the war. Now they were rolling, the flags are flying and a woman should realize that her native costume is a kitchen apron. Just as truly as a man knows that his new suit will be a uniform.

Traditionally, there is a higher premium on baby boys than on baby girls. Young fathers have trumpets in their voices when they announce that their first child is a boy. There is one trumpet less, sometimes, when the progeny is a girl.

Certain heathen nations, which didn't know about war and the importance of saving daughters so they could bear sons, had an extravagant habit of throwing their baby girls into crocodile infested rivers.

It is seldom that a man expresses a desire to be a woman. When he does people stare at him in amazement and wonder why he wishes to desert his manly state. But women remark frequently that they wish that they were men. No one is much surprised.

FILL RECRUITING OFFICES
We may smile in gay independence on our side of the Atlantic, at the biological differences which give women a handicap in the race for life, love, liberty and the privilege of shouldering arms for their countries. But we must admit that the odds are on the men.

No one will deny that it was primitive man's duty to hunt and fish to obtain food for his family. Likewise, it was the duty of the individual woman to prepare the food, and see that the cave or cabin was clean and orderly when a man came from the forest or stream. It was man's place to fight enemies. It was woman's place to fight enemies. It was woman's place to bear children.

But civilization gave us a gracious chivalry in which we came to realize that child-bearing was only a portion of woman's work. We learned that people are human beings before they are either men or women. Then there began the challenge of emancipation. It was a cause which aimed to give women an opportunity to cope with men on an equality in any field. The very fact that women had to fight for this privilege is mute evidence that men, being men, had been accorded the golden apple.

But now we are reminded again by the dictators that preparation for war is the paramount objective of some continental peoples. Without women the recruiting offices would lack soldier-material.

I wonder what would happen if war could be abolished?

LARGE PUBLIC UTILITY PLAN

Proposed Seattle City Light Co. Take Over Puget Sound Power Co.

Associated Press
Seattle, Oct. 4.—First steps in a big project through which City Light, publicly-owned utility here, would acquire by purchase all of the properties of the Puget Sound Power and Light Company, its competitor, and extend its system through western Washington and over into British Columbia, have been taken by Superintendent J. D. Ross.

The project would ultimately involve approximately a hundred million dollars, he says. Ross, known nationally as a public utilities leader, who has been called into consultation on the proposed Lawrence Waterways project, yesterday laid the plan before Mayor Charles L. Smith and the city council in formal form.

The properties of the Puget Sound Power and Light Company, which would be taken over by the City Light, are controlled by Stone and Webster Inc. of New York. Assets of the Puget Sound Power Company which would be taken over under the proposal have a total book value of $129,763,369, a report by Ross, accompanying the proposal, stated.

Evangelist Reveals Divorce Settlement in Action Brought Against Her

Associated Press
Los Angeles, Oct. 4.—Not as they are here and there, it can be told. The evangelist queen of Angelenos, Aimee Semple McPherson, paid David Hutton $2,100 in a divorce settlement, she admitted reluctantly in a judgment debtor's hearing today.

The hearing was on the matter of Mrs. McPherson's ability to pay a $7,188 claim against her for judgment and costs held by assignees of the late J. Roy Stewart, film director. Stewart charged in a suit before his death that the evangelist broke a contract to star in a picture called "Clay in the Potter's Hands."

NO FALL SESSION
Edmonton, Oct. 4 (Canadian Press).—A fall session of the Alberta Legislature is not contemplated, according to Premier E. G. Reid. When asked yesterday if the government was likely to follow the example of Saskatchewan in that respect, he said that matter had not been discussed or considered in any way.

Arms Manufacture Is Called Biggest "Racket"

Chairman Gerald P. Nye of U.S. Senate Inquiry Committee Urges End of Private Making and Sale of Munitions

Associated Press
Washington, Oct. 4.—Manufacture and sale of munitions are branded by Senator Gerald P. Nye, North Dakota Republican, as the world's greatest "racket," which he declared is leading the world straight toward another war.

"War and preparation for it," he said in an address here yesterday evening, "are in many respects not much more than incorporated murder, with the markers of the machinery of war the incorporators." The chairman of the U.S. Senate munitions investigations committee suggested nationalization of munitions manufacture and confiscatory income taxes in time of war as means of preventing war.

"The manufacture and sale of munitions of war is an unadmitted, unblushingly racket—a world racket—none the less obvious because of the partnership of governments and officials in it," the senator declared. He said the story of munitions thus far had only been scantily revealed. The completing of the investigation after January would depend on further Senate appropriations.

KNOW NO FLAG
"I cannot undertake to tell all that has been developed by the investigation of the munitions industry to date, but let me rectify some of the disclosures which are not to be denied," he said.

"That the munitions industry knows no flag is well revealed by their partnership and working agreements with industries and individuals swearing allegiance under different flags. The Electric Boat Company of Groton, Conn., maker of Uncle Sam's submarines, sells its patents and designs and license to manufacture to, among others, Victorians in Great Britain, who build British submarines. Between them there are agreements as to the division of the world into sections in which each may sell, agreements involving the sharing of profits, with the once mystery man of Europe, Sir Basil Zaharoff, seemingly the master mind in the very practical scheme of arming countries against each other with the same instruments and 'secrets' of combat.

"While Zaharoff may once have been a 'senior' man, he stands naked of mystery to-day, and is known as nothing more than a man whose great wealth has come through his ability to cash in on the hates and suspicions of nations, an ability greatly aided by the honors which competing nations and rulers have bestowed on him.

"The great American DuPont concern, considered the industry which will be of greatest utility to our country in the event of another war, has its tie-up with the great Imperial Chemical Industries of Britain and with like institutions in other lands. Between them is constant exchanging of secrets in the development of instruments intended to give one country an advantage over others in the event of war.

"During the course of the hearings two weeks ago a spokesman for the DuPonts undertook to justify their sales and profits during the World War by painting a frightful picture of the purposes of Germany and the great cause of the Allies. There was much of irony in the disclosure the following day that the DuPonts had entered into a contract which would make their products available to Germany, just as there was irony in the confession of the American Electric Boat Company that it was an American company that entered into the building of the German submarines which did our American cause so much damage during the World War.

"Most revealing is that part of the record revealing that our makers of munitions do not refrain from selling to both sides engaged in a war," said Senator Nye. "Some of them sell to governments which are trying to put down rebellions, and at the same time to the rebels who are seeking to overthrow the government, as in Cuba."

No Further Cut In Bond Interest

Canadian Press
Prince Rupert, B.C., Oct. 4.—City Commissioner W. J. Alder, at the annual meeting of the Junior Chamber of Commerce, stated emphatically that Prince Rupert was not in the same class with North Vancouver and Burnaby in regard to defaulting payments, and that, while he was commissioner, there would be no attempt to evade responsibilities by having the bond interest reduced below the 4 per cent already proposed.

Mr. Alder said North Vancouver and Burnaby were not on the map in the same way as Prince Rupert. This city was asking for an investment of $3,000,000 in a pulp plant, but it could hardly do that if it refused to pay the million and a half owed in unpaid bonds. All interest was paid up and he felt sure the 4 per cent would be accepted by the bondholders with the extension of time for twenty years.

Urged to Unite To Prevent War

Workers of 'World Appealed to By Head of U.S. Labor Federation

Associated Press
San Francisco, Oct. 4.—A call to the workers of the world to "unite solidly in order to prevent war" was voiced before the American Federation of Labor convention by William Green, its president, yesterday.

Mr. Green declared it was "the purpose and spirit of the workers of the world to see war never occur again."

"We abhor war in all its forms," he added. "We cannot allow those who have just for power to have their way. They must not be allowed to command the masses of the people to march out on the field of battle and destroy each other."

"We hope the relationships between the labor organizations of the various countries will grow stronger and stronger."

Mr. Green introduced John Stokes of London, fraternal delegate from the British Trades Union Congress, who told the convention that "the socialist principle has become the obvious and sole solution of our economic and industrial ills."

William Dunn of Toronto, fraternal delegate from the Canadian Trades Union Congress, said there appeared to be a growing number of workers in the United States "who realize such slogans and catch phrases as 'rugged individualism' are only economic wool pulled from the eyes of the workers to blind them from their true social position."

ACQUITTAL ENDS EDMONTON TRIAL

Canadian Press
Edmonton, Oct. 4.—Capt. Thomas W. Higginson, forty-five-year-old insurance salesman, yesterday evening stepped from the prisoners' box in Supreme Court room here after a jury, following deliberations of an hour and forty minutes had acquitted him of a charge of murdering Alma Armstrong, twenty, on August 24, last.

The prosecution alleged Higginson fired the revolver which sent a bullet into the girl's throat as she was in Higginson's home while Mrs. Higginson was absent.

Mr. Justice A. B. Evans told the accused after acquittal, "I concur in that verdict. In my opinion there was not sufficient evidence to support a conviction. I could not help but note that during the course of the evidence, where any wrongdoing was concerned, you were led by this young girl. She is now dead."

"My suggestion to you is that you cease being led and hereafter devote your attention to your loyal and devoted wife and family. You are now free."

Crown evidence showed Higginson had known the girl for two years.

ROOSEVELT STRIKES BACK

IN ONE OF HIS INTIMATE CHATS TO the people of the United States over the air on Sunday night, President Roosevelt devoted a good deal of his time to answer those who are complaining because of what they consider his unwarranted boldness of policy, who pretend that he is not guided by any form of successful precedent. He had been told that Great Britain had gradually recovered her economic equilibrium because she had, in effect, let "nature take her course." The press report of that part of his speech which referred to Britain's progress is worth repeating. This is it:

They would make you believe that England has made progress out of her depression by a do-nothing policy, by letting nature take her course, England has her peculiarities and we have ours, but I do not believe any intelligent observer can accuse England of undue orthodoxy in the present emergency.

Did England let nature take her course? No. Did England hold to the gold standard when her reserves were threatened? No. Has England gone back to the gold standard to-day? No. Did England hesitate to call in $10,000,000,000 of her war bonds bearing 5 per cent interest, thereby saving the British treasury $150,000,000 a year in interest alone? No.

And let it be recorded that the British bankers helped. Is it not a fact that ever since the year 1909, Great Britain in many ways has advanced further along lines of social security than the United States?

Is it not a fact that relations between capital and labor on the basis of collective bargaining are much further advanced in Great Britain than in the United States?

It is perhaps not strange that the conservative British press has told us with pardonable irony that much of our new deal programme is only an attempt to catch up with English reforms that go back ten years or more.

What some of President Roosevelt's critics seem to forget is that while there is a liberal, or democratic, government in office at Washington, the social and economic policies of the United States even at the present time are violently conservative when compared with the social and economic policies which were in operation in Great Britain before the war. Child labor, for example, only recently has been abolished in the United States. Its abolition in the United Kingdom has been lost sight of in the mists of history. There is no state health insurance in the United States in 1934. The system in Britain is wearing nearly a quarter of a century's growth of whiskers. In the neighboring republic there is no unemployment insurance. The United States and Canada, for that matter, pointed with scorn to what it called the "dole."

Supposing the term "dole" is not far off the mark, it is pertinent to remind those who have attacked it that if this form of relief had not been available in the early post-war years in Great Britain, there would have assuredly been a serious social and economic upheaval. Yet the unemployment fund in Great Britain is now paying its way and relief cuts made at the time of the country's financial crisis have been partially restored.

Only in the last decade, moreover, have the women of the United States been permitted to vote as a nation-wide unit. Women's suffrage, of course, was bitterly fought for in Great Britain in the pre-war years. There were memorable scenes in Whitehall between 1908 and 1914. The war, however, and the magnificent part the women of Britain played, broke down completely the last barrier to equality in the matter of the franchise.

To suggest, therefore, that Britain let "nature take her course" in the emergency which followed the economic upheaval of 1929 is ridiculous. One striking example of the flexibility of British policy—even under the most conservative of governments, a government with the largest Tory following in history—was the flight from the pound sterling. The government in office in London appealed to the people for support on the ground that it was essential Britain remain on the gold standard. It had not been in office long before the country had to be "saved" by going off the gold standard. Well may President Roosevelt remind his critics that the United States only now is catching up with another branch of the English-speaking nations which took the bit in its teeth, if the metaphor may be permitted, when the national "nag" had been running in the wrong direction.

Perhaps one of the most drastic financial moves made by Britain was when she called in $10,000,000,000 worth of war bonds that had been paying their holders five per cent, and replaced them with bonds to pay their holders only three and one-half per cent. No less than $150,000,000 worth of interest was saved the country on this transaction alone. Mr. Roosevelt very properly recalled the fact in his radio talk on Sunday that British bankers lent their whole-hearted co-operation in this highly-important conversion of governmental securities.

When some historian writes the history of the post-war years relating to the social and economic progress of the great commonwealth on the south of us, he will probably record the fact that the principle of the most important policies which President Roosevelt sought to incorporate in his "New Deal" had been embodied in policies which had been operating in Great Britain for many years. He will probably say, too, that Franklin Delano Roosevelt gave to his compatriots a new hope when their spirits were at a very low ebb. He produced a new psychology—in short, he gave bold leadership, and when he leaves office he will be able to take into his retirement the knowledge that he did his best for the "forgotten man."

TRADE EXPANDING

CANADA'S EXTERNAL TRADE continues to expand. For the first four months of the current fiscal year the increase in total trade is nearly one hundred-million dollars. The gain in imports is greater than in exports both in the four months and in the latest month (July) for which returns are available. The month of July exhibits gains in all but two groups of imports and in all but three groups of exports, while on the four-month comparison increases are evident in all branches of trade.

The total external trade of the Dominion for the twelve months ending July was $1,109,100,000, compared with $864,500,000 for the twelve months ending July, last year, or a gain of $244,600,000. Incidentally, half of this increase was due to better business with the United States, the figures being $475,800,000 and $354,700,000 respectively, a gain of $121,100,000.

The grand total value of Canada's external trade for the four months ended July was $384,051,000. For the corresponding four months of last year the value was $287,460,000. As between these two periods, imports increased from $122,701,000 to $178,031,000 and domestic exports from $162,900,000 to $203,648,000. On the same comparison re-exports of foreign merchandise rose in value from $1,858,000 to $2,371,000. For the month of July imports rose from $35,698,000 to $44,144,000 and domestic exports from $51,345,000 to $56,121,000.

The largest increase among imports for the four months was recorded in iron and its products with non-metallic minerals second. Iron and steel imports rose from $20,352,000 in 1933 to $37,888,000 in the current year; while non-metals increased from $23,367,000 to $34,001,000. In the iron and steel group the largest imports normally consist of vehicles and machinery, while among the non-metals coal and oil are the main features. Among other large gains in imports were agricultural and vegetable products, mainly foods, which rose from $17,954,000 to $24,478,000 and fibres and textiles which increased from $19,903,000 to $27,355,000. In the month of July there were gains in all groups of imports except fibres and textiles and chemicals.

For the month of July the only sizeable decline in domestic exports was in agricultural and vegetable products, and that mainly in wheat. The other two declines, both small, were in fibres and textiles and in non-metals. On the other hand, the largest gains took place in iron and steel and in wood and paper, each being about two million dollars. On the four-month comparison the largest gains were in wood and paper and in non-ferrous metals. Of these the former increased from $42,290,000 to $51,770,000 and the latter from $23,786,000 to $39,972,000.

The other chief increases were in iron and its products from $7,392,000 to $14,472,000; in animals and animal products from $19,241,000 to $24,220,000; in agricultural and vegetable products (other than foods) from $4,985,500 to $8,520,000; and in agricultural and vegetable products, mainly foods, from $51,516,000 to $54,751,000.

HORROR LOST IN DISTANCE

NO MORE IMPRESSIVE EXAMPLES OF the relative effect of distance upon the human emotions can be had than those afforded by three recent disasters which cost a total of nearly 5,000 lives. To Canadians, the one that struck home with most telling effect was the burning of the Morro Castle just off the New Jersey coast. Fire at sea is perhaps the most horrible form of death—human beings are called upon to face, and here was a case where 137 men and women were burned or drowned as the final episode of a gay holiday cruise and within only a few hours of home.

The event struck horror into the hearts of all of us. It was so close and its victims were so familiar to us. Yet within the same month two much more heartrending tragedies have occurred, and it is doubtful whether either got more than casual recognition in our homes.

In one case, a mighty typhoon swept out of the Pacific and over Osaka, Japan, and hurled nearly 2,000 men, women and children to their deaths. It tore up buildings and homes, and left more than 5,000 homeless and destitute.

In the other case, an explosion sealed the opening to a coal mine near Wrexham, Wales, and doomed 260 miners to a death by fire and asphyxiation.

Here were accidents far more disastrous than the Morro Castle fire, but because of their distances from us they seemed so unreal and intangible. It is hard for us to realize the gravity and dread consequences of these horrible disasters. Men, women and children deprived of their homes; families torn apart; wives, sons and daughters left mourning and alone; thousands without further means of support.

At the same time the Lindbergh case breaks again, a suspect is arrested and the whole story of the fatal kidnapping of more than two years ago is revived. So gripping was that tragedy and so popular its principal characters that it has become a chief topic of discussion in all homes.

THE BOY REVERTS
The Chicago Daily News

Again London town learns that blood is thicker than water. Lord Edward Montagu, second son of the Duke of Manchester, is selling hot dogs at Maidenhead-on-Thames and is making money. Starting with a £1 note, equivalent to a "fin" over the Rhine in Cincinnati, his lordship cleaned up a double sawbuck the first day. He dreams of a chain of Wienerwurst linking his lunch stands from John o' Groats to Land's End. Why not? It is in his blood. Through his mother, as boys so often do, he inherits the business brains of his grandfather. This boy's grandfather was Eugene Zimmerman, jolly brewer of Cincinnati in the foamy days when Julius Fleischmann was mayor, George Cox was boss, the Reds were a real ball team and the world was whirling the score of "The Prince of Pilsen."

The boy has struck his grandpappy's stride. Why, Cincinnati was Portopolis, hog butcher and soap boiler to the world when Chicago's Parkington was a canoe portage.

TIME

AN EDITORIAL from a Detroit paper, quoted in this paper last night, complains bitterly about the difference in the time recorded by the public clocks of that city. Every clock on the streets in Detroit, it seems, tells a different story. Ah, but the Detroit editor should come here and see what a really capable race of people can do with the time! True, we have few public clocks, but I dare say the spread between them is as wide as the total spread between all the public clocks of Detroit. Indeed, as you drive past the City Hall clock and observe the clocks in front of the jewellers' shops further along, you feel as if you were crossing one of those meridians where you have to put your watch back or forward a full hour.

But I think it is a custom to be maintained at all costs—like stout policeman and the Victorian accent and our sea serpent. There is too much insistence on mere time in the world just now, too much effort to save it, to cut off minutes here and there, to keep everything to a schedule of seconds. And as usual with such things, the whole arrangement turns out to be a complete joke. For this generation, which pinches every minute as if it were a dollar bill, wastes more time than any generation in history.

It will drive at break-neck speed to save two minutes and then will waste five when it gets there. It will rush through its work to finish at a certain moment and then sit around listening to the radio all evening or just sitting. Our ancestors, who were supposed to waste so much time, actually used it much more completely than we do. They were busy all the time they were awake and when they went to bed they slept with a soundness that we don't know.

A philosopher's mind is not in the least disturbed, therefore, to find that it is five minutes to nine at the City Hall and two minutes past on Government Street. He does not lose his confidence in government when he observes that most of the offices in the Parliament Buildings are operating on different time. He is not distressed when his stenographer is five minutes late because he knows that if she were five minutes early she would waste fifteen minutes during the day bragging about it.

The only way to treat the time is to forget about it. I have forgotten about it for years. I have observed the difference in our local clocks with a fine composure since I was a boy. And I find that while everything else is in a state of confusion, my neglect of time goes no matter how you neglect it. And it seems being controlled and dictated to by clocks and schedules and more hurried, have less time, than we who pay no attention to them. The same alone. It is quite a lot older than you are and can look after itself without your help.

FLESH CREEPER

MY Eloquent and able young friend Mr. Olive Plante, member of the Legislature for Peace River, has been making Prince Rupert's flesh creep by telling them how they are going to be embroiled up there in America's coming war with Japan. He says the United States wants to build the Alaska Highway as a feeder for its Alaskan fortifications and air bases, and as the road will go through British Columbia, we shall find ourselves for the first time embroiled in these larger international problems of the Pacific.

On the same day, by a curious coincidence, an ex-United States senator told the United States Senate that it must provide a huge aerial fleet not to defend America but to bomb Japan, and added pleasantly that a few good dirigibles could destroy Japan altogether. On the same day, by a further coincidence, the Japanese war department was publishing a nice booklet telling how it was going to get ready right away to fight Russia.

This is all very reassuring, for apparently we are on the direct route of any aerial armada which flies from the United States to destroy Japan, or from Japan to destroy the United States. If you saw the small fleet of United States bombers flying over here it is in more marching and marching at lunch time the other day you have some faint notion of what improved aviation, say twenty years from now, could accomplish.

But just why must we lie in the path of war via Alaska? Is there any real economic reason why the United States should fight Japan? Of course there is, under the existing arrangements obtaining in the world. There is a real economic reason why all the nations should go to war. It is very simple, as simple as a small sum in arithmetic.

Reduce it to miniature and assume that there is only one factory in the United States. It produces a great many goods and makes a fine profit. The owner does not spend the profits on goods that he consumes. He turns it into capital. That is to say, he invests it in more machinery and enlarges his factory and produces more goods. By this time his employees cannot consume his goods and times are hard. Therefore he reduces wages. Therefore the employees can buy still less goods. His profits decline.

What to do? Why, find an outside market, of course. There are the backward peoples in the Orient. They can be taught to wear night-shirts or patent leather shoes and perhaps to use toothbrushes. The native peoples are so taught and for a time the goods from the factory are all sold and wages go up and more factories are built and everything is lovely. It was lovely from the Industrial Revolution up to recently because only a few nations had factories and there were plenty of natives who had no night-shirts.

MORE NIGHTSHIRTS THIS WAS fine, but pretty soon factory owners in other countries had to find outside markets. The Japanese, for example, came into the picture. They want to teach the Chinamen to wear Japanese night-shirts and they are doing it on a grand scale. Most of India already is wearing Japanese night-shirts. To make this possible, Japan reduces its prices, its wages, its standard of living. To compete with it the other nations do the same. The more they want to sell against such competition the more they have to reduce wages, the less their own people can buy. But at all costs the market must be retained.

But why, you ask, when the people at home haven't enough night-shirts, haven't the price of patent leather shoes or toothbrushes, shouldn't they be a great market for the products of the factory? They would be but for one difficulty—they haven't the purchasing power. And so long as the profits on their work are turned into capital and reinvested in developing more factories, so long in other words, as money has the power of spawning more money without actual constructive effort on its owner's part, just so long the workers will be unable to buy back the product of their work in the factory.

But so long as there are plenty of wild places like China to exploit, the factory will make money and can pay its workers high wages and everybody

Can it be treason to ignore a vow Which life itself outgrows?

The spring is passing; ah, shall summer ever forego the rose?

ANSWER

Life ever is a thing of growth and change, As fabled at a stream;

So, if to-day loved yesterday seem strange, Count it a dream.

Without regret to leave things past and gone, And in their stead to see With joy the shining challenge of the dawn, Is life's device.

Can it be treason, then, to turn away When fate's hope's glamour dies, To greet the coming of another day Where promise lies?

VIVISECTION VERSUS PROGRESS

To the Editor—

Mr. Robert Cornish, so much advertised on account of his efforts to restore dogs he has "killed," is still at his unpleasant work, which purports to be in the interests of clinical research.

In recent reports from California, we are told that poor little "No. 13" tortured, blind, "does not take kindly to shaming his up-to-now exclusive status" with another victim.

The pitiable condition of these deliberately tortured creatures seems to be a cause for cheap levity, cheap journalistic jargon and cheap sentiment.

Animals are not interested in vicarious suffering in the vaunted interests of science, or pseudo-science. If they were asked whether they wanted to be mutilated, poisoned, starved, tortured for a quite uncertain and improbable benefit to man they would undoubtedly say that nothing could be gained by such sacrifice and would prefer to remain

DRAWS PROTEST

Trades Council Asks For Investigation on Naval Barracks Improvements

Efforts will be made by the Victoria Trades and Labor Council to have improvement work at the Esquimalt Naval Barracks placed on a basis of day labor in order to give more unemployed artisans an opportunity to secure work.

The council will communicate with the Federal Minister of Public Works to see what steps can be taken along those lines.

At yesterday evening's meeting, members of the local trades and labor council voiced disapproval of the manner in which the contract work had been sublet to other contractors who did the work themselves, leaving little opportunity for artisans to secure work.

Brickwork and electrical work were the chief sources of contention.

The council also asked a protest to be forwarded to the Dominion fair wage officer regarding wages paid carpenters on the Esquimalt Naval Barracks job. It was reported the men were working there at a rate 20c a day under the recognized scale.

R. W. Nunn, treasurer of the local council, was selected as a delegate to the provincial executive meeting, the appointment he held last year.

SHAWNIGAN LAKE

Shawnigan, Oct. 4.—A card club has been formed in the district to meet at the Shawnigan Lake Athletic Association Hall on the first and third Fridays of each month at 8 o'clock, during the winter months. Scores will be tabulated and prizes given for high scores over the period. All are invited to attend. An organization meeting for badminton will be held in the Shawnigan Lake Athletic Association Hall Wednesday.

At a recent meeting the basketball club was organized and committees appointed to manage affairs for the coming season. Several new players of note have joined the club and it is expected that Shawnigan will have one of the best clubs it has had in years and that several teams from Victoria will visit the lake during the season to play exhibition games. An effort is being made to form a league comprising teams from Cowichan, Cobble Hill and Shawnigan, with a possibility of a team from Duncan.

Killer Whale Snaps At Dog

Sidney Family Pet Needs Call to Leave the Water Just in Time

Capt. John Reid of Sidney tells of an unusual incident that occurred last week on a small island in Iroquois Passage, off the northeast tip of the Saanich Peninsula. His wife and son, Arthur Reid, observed a killer whale quite close to the shore, in fact, so close that their dog became excited and started to bark and wade into the water in the direction of the whale. Fearing the dog was courting death, Mrs. Reid called the dog back, and just in time—the family pet had just turned around for the shore when up popped the head of another killer whale where the canine had been an instant before and snapped for the fleeing dog. It was so unexpected that the two onlookers could scarcely believe their eyes. The dog escaped just by a few inches.

Capt. Reid, who has had many years' experience in local waters, states it is the first time he has ever heard of a dog being attacked by a killer whale, their victims generally being seals.

Young People's Church Societies

A novel and interesting feature was introduced in the Monday evening programme of the First United Young People's Society, being a visit to the plant of the Sidney Roofing and Paper Company.

The young people met at the church at 8 o'clock when an short business meeting was held, and Bert Bailey spoke for a few minutes on the production of plays, reminding the society of the drama festival to be held in November by the young people's groups of the city. The devotional period was assisted by Miss Margaret James, assisted by Miss Beattie Crowther.

After this, the group proceeded to the office of the Sidney Roofing and Paper Company, where they were met by Logan Mayhew, who conducted them over the plant, explaining the various processes. All agreed that it had been a most interesting evening, and thanks were expressed to Mr. Mayhew for his part in the programme.

A hike to Mt. Work has been planned for next Monday, when the young people will meet at the church at 9 o'clock sharp.

MANY PEOPLE STILL NEEDY

To Alleviate Sickness and Want in Greater Victoria, Drive Will Soon Open

"We realize how extremely difficult it is for most people in better circumstances to believe stories they hear of sickness and want in Victoria," stated a case worker of the Friendly Help Welfare Association in mentioning some of the details of charity work that is being carried out in Victoria. "If a person has always had enough to eat, has never known what it is to be cold, or poorly clothed, it is hard for them to realize the plight of many unfortunate residents of Greater Victoria."

While suffering and want here is not as great, nor as widespread as compared with a few years ago, there are still many people unable to get on their feet. They must, in their hour of need, turn to the Friendly Help Welfare Association of Victoria, or welfare associations in Oak Bay, Saanich and Esquimalt. There, aid is always forthcoming, and there the needy persons will find willing workers to listen sympathetically to their stories. They know they will be helped as quietly as possible, and without their stories being passed on to gossiping persons. All such charity work handled by these welfare associations is carried on as unobtrusively as possible.

But all this splendid work takes money, and it is to finance these welfare organizations until October, 1935, that a campaign for $48,500 will be started October 15. Campaign headquarters have been opened at No. 6 Quinch Building.

Committees in charge of the campaign are: From the Friendly Help Welfare Association, F. E. Winslow, Capt. W. Hobart Molson, A. R. Heister and M. F. Ferris; from Esquimalt, Mrs. A. Warder and Lady Barnard; from Saanich, Mrs. William Dealey and Reeve William Crouch; and from Oak Bay, Mrs. R. R. Taylor and John V. Johnson.

HOME PRODUCTS WEEK AT DUNCAN

Duncan, Oct. 4.—This is "Made in B.C. Week" in Duncan. All stores are displaying merchandise made in British Columbia.

L. P. Champion, field secretary of the B.C. Products Bureau of the Vancouver Board of Trade, addressed the members of the Duncan Rotary Club and their guests at their luncheon meeting in the Yvonne Hotel yesterday. He pointed out to them the progress that had been made in the manufacture and use of goods made in B.C. in recent years and urged their co-operation in greater distribution, which meant greater prosperity for all in British Columbia.

To-morrow, Mr. Champion will address and demonstrate samples of B.C. products to the members of the L.O.E. at the home of Mrs. H. P. Swan.

An inspection of store window displays will be made on Wednesday morning.

will be happy. Therefore, the exploited areas like China must be kept open at all costs. If necessary, they must be fought for. And inevitably sooner or later, so long as the factory must keep enlarging to increase the capital of the owner instead of returning its profits to the consumer, these markets will be fought for by military or other methods.

BAD CHAP

WE HAVE just found out the truth about William our way, and it is about time. William has been a nuisance around here for months. Whenever anything disagreeable occurred we always discovered that he was responsible.

"William, he did it," the little boy next door would assure us, with solemnity. "William, he's the bad chap."

It was William, according to the little boy next door, who picked all the apples off the Grimes Golden tree before they were ripe, and shook all the plums down.

"William, he did it," the little boy next door would insist and add, "William, he's the bad chap."

His sister would laugh a fiendish sort of laugh and point in a general northerly direction and say that William lived over that way.

William knocked the wood pile down. He dug a large hole in the back. He chopped Nancy's head with an axe and no one could put it back again. He threw a teddy bear into the lily pond and broke into the cake tin next door.

"William, he did it," said the little boy. "William, he's the bad chap."

"He lives over there," said his sister, pointing to the north.

But to-day we ambushed and surrounded the two of them systematically, sampling our Orange Pippins, those autumn apples which contain the true elixir of youth in them. We wouldn't have minded that, but they insisted on taking one small bite out of each apple then throwing it away and trying another. About the tree lay dozens of Orange Pippins, each with the mark of small teeth in it.

As we rushed forward to the attack, the little boy's chest shouted in terror, "William, he did it! William, he's the bad chap!"

"He lives over there," said his sister, pointing desperately to the north.

But when we inserted the bitten apple into their mouths we found that the bites fitted their teeth exactly. As we had suspected, William turned out to be a phantom, very wicked, but extremely convenient. Under pressure it was admitted that William had been discovered in a story book where he had chanced a very disreputable character indeed.

"William, he's the bad chap," grinned the little boy.

"He lives over there," said his sister with a sinister chuckle.

But William has gone now forever.

RHODES SCHOLAR TO BE SELECTED

Applications Must Be Made to Secretary, Sherwood Lett, Before October 31

Applications for the Rhodes Scholarship for 1935 will be considered in December next and the closing date for the receipt of them by the secretary for British Columbia will be Wednesday, October 31.

To be eligible for a scholarship an applicant must be a British subject, with at least five years domicile in Canada. He must be unmarried and have passed his nineteenth birthday but not his twenty-fifth birthday on October 1 of the year for which he is elected. He must also by October 1 of the year for which he is elected have completed two years of his course at one of the universities of Canada. An applicant may make application for a scholarship in the province in which his home is situated or for any province in which he has received at least two years of his college education before applying.

In making the selection of a scholar the selection committee follows the section of Mr. Rhodes's will in which he defined the type of scholar he had in mind. Briefly the qualities he desired were: 1. Force of character, devotion to duty, courage, sympathy, capacity for leadership; 2. ability and scholastic attainments; 3. physical vigor, as shown by participation in games or in other ways.

Mr. Rhodes desired that his scholars should be chosen for a due combination of these attributes and he laid especial emphasis upon those mental and moral qualities which would be likely in after-life to guide them to esteem the performance of public duties as their highest aim.

Application forms for scholarships are now obtainable from the registrar of the University of British Columbia and from the secretary of the selection committee, Sherwood Lett, 626 Pender Street West, Vancouver.

Low prices attract attention but fine quality is the best 'bargain' when it comes to tea.

Fine tea is richly flavoured, clear as crystal and healthful. Common tea is merely an indifferent beverage.

SALADA TEA

SALT SPRING ISLAND

Ganges, Oct. 4.—The Misses Shirley and Bridie Wilson were hostesses on Saturday evening at a delightful dinner party and handkerchief shower in honor of Miss Doris Taylor, whose marriage to Dermot Crofton of Ganges took place in Victoria Tuesday.

The table decorations were unusually pretty, consisting of long red and white streamers hanging from the ceiling, on which large white bells were hung, red ribbons being suspended from them, and a handkerchief fashioned into the form of a dove being attached to the end of each ribbon.

On the table itself were vases of red phlox and foliage, silver candlesticks with red candles placed at each corner.

The invited guests included Mrs. Graham Shore, Mrs. Raymond Morris, Mrs. Neil McElroy, Mrs. Gerald Panning, Mrs. Colin King, Mrs. E. Leigh, Misses Betty Kinabury, Betty Roache, Betty Faulkner, Doreen and Denise Crofton, Nora Turner, Ruby Thompson, Edna Morris, N. Thompson and several others.

Much sympathy is felt on the island for Mrs. W. M. Palmer, Ganges, on the passing suddenly of her mother, Mrs. Pellen of New Westminster. Mrs. Pellen was known to many here, having been a frequent visitor with Mr. and Mrs. Palmer.

Mrs. Collard of Victoria is a visitor on Salt Spring Island, the guest of Rev. E. J. Thompson at Ganges.

C. H. Dietke of Nanaimo has been spending a few days on the island, a guest at Harbor House, Ganges.

Miss N. Thompson, who has been a guest of Mr. and Mrs. W. Wilson, is leaving shortly on an indefinite visit to friends in India.

Dermot K. Crofton, whose marriage to Miss Doris Taylor took place in Victoria Tuesday, was the guest of honor at a stag dinner in the sun room at Harbor House on Saturday evening. The table was charming with its decorations of yellow and mauve flowers and foliage, which contrasted prettily with the colored electric lights. Among those present were T. F. Speed, V. Case Morris, Cecil Springford, W. Ross, George West, W. Spiller, W. A. McAfee, Eric Springford, R. Price, Desmond Crofton, Ted Borradaile, Neil McElroy, Ed. Leigh, Graham Shore, H. Nichols, Leslie Jenkins, Peter Turner, Faddy Crofton, Fred Morris, C. Toynbee, Dr. F. Verrinder and several others.

Mr. and Mrs. A. Nichols have removed from their former home and have taken up residence in the house belonging to Guy Cunningham on Rainbow Road, Ganges.

Smith and Mr. R. E. Wilders acted as usher.

Following the wedding a quiet reception was held at the home of the bride's parents, 954 West Thirtieth, where the guests were received by Mrs. Peters, assisted by Mrs. W. Dawson, sister of the groom. The bride and groom received the congratulations of their friends in the living-room against a floral background of yellow and bronze chrysanthemums. The bride's table, covered with a Venetian cloth, was centred by a three-tier wedding cake, flanked by white tapers in silver sconces and ornamented with yellow and pink rosebuds and maidenhead fern in silver vases. Mrs. B. Hendrick and Miss C. Walker poured tea.

For traveling the bride chose a brown ensemble with accessories to match. The bride was a graduate of Vancouver General Hospital, 33 class and was a gold medalist of that year and has been on the staff of that institution since her graduation. The couple left by boat for an extended honeymoon in the south. Upon their return they will take up residence in Victoria.

Married Flirts

MABEL McLELLON
© 1934 M.E.A. Service, Inc.

"Nice he gets on with them so well," Sue murmured. "Oh, mums adores him. If he were her own son, she couldn't be fonder. Well, we found this place. The house wasn't in bad shape. It's 100 years old, you know, but it had been remodelled about twenty years ago by some artist and his wife who had to go west. The barn was a big old ramshackle place but it had fine beams and a good foundation. We concentrated on the house first. Paint and plumbing and whatnot. Whipple Beach was our fairy god-mother."

"It's charming," Sue glanced back at the white house, crouched in the shade of arching trees. The veranda was furnished with deep chairs and scattered tables. "Then I had this brainstorm about the nursery school. I'll have to run for me and maybe some day I'll make some money. Tom is as enthusiastic as I am. He spends weekends hammering and sandpapering. We've just about finished. Come around a week from Monday and I'll show you our student body. All in pink rompers."

"I will," Sue promised. She was leaning on the car door now and Sue reflected to herself that really she did not look a scrap older than on that gala day five years before when she had walked up the aisle of the little church in Blue Hills. Tom Weaver's bride. Her brown curls were as flyaway as ever and the apricot flush still lingered in her rounded cheeks. She was wearing her working costume to-day—dark blue slacks and a striped jersey shirt. She looked almost like a rosy boy, the kind of figure you see in postcard advertising the Breton countryside. Only when she turned and swooped the overalled child by her side into her arms and buried her face in his sunburned neck you saw she was not a boy at all, but a woman, warm, eager, loving.

Sue sighed again. "If I had a child..." "You will," Gypsy prophesied. David struggled to be free and then set him squarely down upon his feet and he grinned at her engagingly. "Don't let it be a baby," Gypsy said inaudibly. "I'm going to build a house myself," the boy boasted. "Better than the men."

"Of course you are," Gypsy surveyed him with pride. "Call me when you've finished. I want to see." The child strutted away, proud and zealous. Sue lingered, her hand fumbling for the ignition key. "I declare I wish I hadn't promised to go to Elsie Wilbur's tea," she said. "I'd like to stop here all afternoon. We haven't talked things out. There are dozens of people I want to know about. By the way, whatever became of Lila Bliss? The last I heard of her she was cutting a great swathe abroad."

"She was undisciplined—we all were," Gypsy defended. Sue burst out laughing. "You talk a greybeard, my dear. You must be all of twenty-seven."

"I've learned a lot," Gypsy told her soberly. "I've learned to keep quiet and smile when I feel like flying into a temper. I've had to learn lots for David's sake. That's one thing motherhood teaches you—self-control."

"Well, you're an angel and I love you. Look for me some day next week," Sue flung back as she started the car. The last glimpse she had of Gypsy was a dark blue figure silhouetted against the clear haze of the September sky, as she argued impetuously with a carpenter. Was it possible, Sue thought, driving off, that she had ever been jealous of her friend? Ridiculous and yet true. She had suffered torments over it. Now Hunt was hers. Gypsy had been married five whole years. They were all getting along and settled. No more flurries... no heartbreaks... Marriage changes you all, Gypsy thought. Some for the worse (there was Lila) and some for the better. In the candlelight, with Gypsy's second daughter, Annie, coming to and fro with hot food in the blue dishes, Gypsy told Tom about Sue's visit. Gypsy had changed her slacks and jersey for an organdy frock striped and plaided in pale green. Her lovely neck and shoulders were bare. The old dining-room, with its white paneled walls and dark old mahogany, was a pleasant setting for the untroubled meal.

"Sue's restless," she told him. "She's like me, some time back before I really found myself."

Tom's ready laugh rang out. She was so solemn about it.

"So you've done that, have you? Nobody would ever guess, I thought you were still groping." "Don't make fun of me, darling. I'm a better wife than I used to be." He smiled at her, suddenly serious. "You were always," he told her, "everything a man could wish." They were alone with the coffee things now. Annie was muttering to herself in the kitchen, the child asleep in his big room under the eaves. The blue haze of twilight lingered. Gypsy tilted the silver coffee pot, filled his cup again. It seemed to her the night pressed close to unfold her happiness in this house, with her man, her child. Marriage was the great adventure—no doubt about it. Lila might roam the high seas, might taste romance in far places, but she would never know anything surer and sweeter than this. She would never see any lovelier lights than the lights of home.

APPRECIATION HOUR RESUMED

The seventh consecutive season of one of the greatest organized courses in the understanding of good music, the NBC Music Appreciation Hour, will be inaugurated under the baton of Dr. Walter Damrosch, over combined coast-to-coast NBC networks to-morrow.

More than 6,000,000 school children throughout the United States will develop their knowledge of the world's greatest compositions in the twelve weekly concerts by the NBC Symphony Orchestra, in which Dr. Damrosch will demonstrate the various forms of music. Students' notebooks giving the themes of the numbers played in each broadcast, and instructors' manuals to assist in interpreting the course, are now being distributed from the NBC studios in Radio City.

The 1934-35 course, as in previous seasons, will consist of four series of graded programmes for children from eight to eighteen years old. Each Friday broadcast from 8 to 9 a.m. P.S.T. heard here over KFO and KOMO, will include programmes for two of the series, the remaining two being broadcast in the broadcast of the following week.

HOROSCOPE

"The stars incline, but do not compel"
FRIDAY, OCTOBER 5, 1934

Benefic aspects rule strongly to-day, according to astrology. The stars smile on journeys, new plans and new acquaintances. It is a good time to travel to other cities or foreign lands. The planetary government is fortunate for all matters affecting electricity and the development of power. This is a fortunate day for making contracts and for signing papers connected with trade or commerce.

Aspects are promising for promoting big profits, for asking favors of persons in authority and for the transaction of public business. Stock markets in Europe may fluctuate sharply under this rule which makes for sudden financial slump that may alarm the world wide.

"Mystery" murders of women will mark the winter, and robberies and violence will increase. Remarkable inventions now will be announced. It is prophesied, and one will effect the living conditions of the civilized world, transforming life in the tropics. Persons whose birthday it is have the augury of a year of pleasant contacts with friends and relatives. For the young courtship is indicated.

Children born on this day probably will be cheerful and successful. Denis Diderot, famous French historian, was born on this day 1713. Others who have celebrated it as a birthday are Jonathan Edwards, theologian, 1703; Jean Baptiste Edouard Detaille, French painter, 1804.

How to Prepare Thanksgiving Feast Without Deserting Your Guests

THE THANKSGIVING TABLE—With fruit centerpieces the vogue for Thanksgiving Day dinner this year, flowers go into the damask linen cloth. This table has a green and gold tablecloth with phlox design. Old-fashioned crystal candlesticks add their quaint touch.

By SISTER MARY

WHEN we realize that the turkey has been the approved bird to provide at the annual feast of Thanksgiving next Monday we concede the justice of his importance.

However, turkey alone cannot make a Thanksgiving dinner, even if the bird is traditional with the day. "Fixins" are as important as King Turk. In some parts of the east, chicken pie ran a close second to turkey. Both were often served at the same dinner. According to our modern way of thinking and eating, either one or the other, but not both, should be served. Of course, if a big party must be planned and one turkey is not large enough and two too much, the chicken pie will prove an ideal stretcher, since it is quite as traditional as turkey itself.

While we are speaking about turkey, it is well to remember that an eight to twelve-pound bird turkey makes the best dinner. It may be necessary to place your order with the butcher or poultry man several weeks in advance.

The following menu is a typical "old-time" dinner. While simple, it is interesting enough to give any cook ample opportunity to display her skill.

THANKSGIVING MENU
Clear Tomato Soup
Assorted Relishes
Roast Turkey
Cranberry Jelly
Mashed Potatoes
Squash Croquettes
Thanksgiving Salad
Pumpkin Pie or Indian Pudding
Kuts
Coffee
Fruit

PLANNING IS IMPORTANT.

If your dinner is to be a success, every item should be considered and planned ahead of the feast. Then, when it is time to cook the dinner, you can devote all your thought and energy to the actual cooking and serving of the meal.

Look over your stock of staples and replenish such things as salt, flour and sugar before the big day arrives. Be sure the table linen and china are all in readiness. Polish the silver the night of the week if you are afraid things may pile up later.

When you plan your dinner give the turkey the centre of the stage. Keep the courses simple and of such foods as will form a background for and enhance the glory of the bird.

The soup can be made the day before, ready to heat and serve. Home-made relishes such as pickles and chutney sauce with the addition of celery are suitable and inexpensive. The turkey should be stuffed, ready for the oven.

Make the cranberry jelly also the day before. Cook the squash and make into croquettes, ready for egg-frying, crumbing and frying, the day before, too. Bake the brown bread also. It can be reheated if wanted warm with the salad.

Let the salad be deliciously crisp lettuce, crisp or endive or a combination of the three with a French dressing.

Indian pudding is as popular for dessert as pumpkin pie and if there is room in the oven to bake it while the turkey is roasting, it will be sure to please when served with vanilla ice cream.

If pumpkin pie is chosen cook the pumpkin and run it through a colander the preceding day. Then the pies can be baked early Monday morning before the turkey must have the oven.

If the hostess plans carefully and does as much as possible during the time preceding Thanksgiving Day she can find time to enjoy her guests even if she must cook and serve her dinner herself.

TWO SECONDS to be sure of her Hair

With all the care a woman gives her hair, it is a pity to omit this last touch that means so much. It is no trouble. Yet you can hardly believe anything so mild and delightful as Danderine could bring such a change in the condition and appearance of hair and scalp. Just try it. You can buy Danderine at any drug store for thirty-five cents; larger sizes for 60c and $1.00.

That's what moistening your comb with a few drops of Danderine will do. And no amount of dry-combing will ever do. Nearly all hair needs the help that Danderine gives it. A dash of Danderine morning and night when you comb it, makes an amazing difference in the way any hair looks all the time! When you've washed your hair, a little Danderine will keep it from going helter-skelter. When you pay a dollar for a wave, Danderine will help you keep it. It isn't sticky dressing, or an oily tonic, and it doesn't leave a telltale odor. Its fresh fragrance is gone so quickly after applying—but not that very marvelous effect of freshness and cleanliness!

SPORTS MIRROR

TEDDY YAROSZ, according to the public prints, is world middleweight champion. Having won that title from Vince Dundee in a fifteen-round bout at Pittsburgh. But not long before that, we also read in the public prints that the world's middleweight champion was Marcel Thil, who had won the title from Marcel Thil, world's middleweight champion, now and then pulls on the gloves to score another win. It sounds a little strange, doesn't it? Well, it is. The sale of calling cards announcing a purchaser's name, followed by "The World Middleweight Champion" at no extra cost.

Who is middleweight champion? Vince Dundee once was pretty generally recognized to be the titleholder. He won it from Marcel Thil, and then there were two. In Europe, Thil is world middleweight champion. The International Boxing Union, before the Dundee-Yaros match, said: "We do not recognize Vince Dundee of Baltimore as the middleweight champion of the world. Marcel Thil of France is the holder of this title." Thil has been a good fighter, but is old. He has been fighting for some time. He still has the most legitimate claim to the crown. Young Corbett beat him. Walker, on account of the fact that Walker had resigned his title while still undefeated as middleweight champion, this was billed as the "world middleweight championship fight." It was not. If a man resigns his title, that is the end of it. There is no such thing as a man resigning his title and then claiming it. For instance, can you imagine a man defeating a man named Tunney, being billed as the world heavyweight champion, and then resigning his title? He might have been a good man, but that would not give him the title. Yarosz ought to get a match with Thil, because he can probably outlast the Frenchman and box his way to a decision, as Thil is over thirty and on his up-grade. That would clean up the situation.

One of the suggestions for the next Olympic Games is that getting consideration over in Berlin is an exhibition baseball game between the United States and Japan. Of course it would be strictly limited to amateurs. In that case, wouldn't it be embarrassing if the U.S. team got wiped out? A thing quite possible, because the Japanese are great baseball fans and all their best players are amateurs, while all the best ones in the U.S. are professionals. If such a game were held, and it "caught on" over there, baseball might become an Olympic sport, competed for by all nations. It is already a competitive sport in the Far Eastern Olympics, where, by the way, the Filipinos can usually hand Japan all the opposition they want.

Another sport the Germans are eager to introduce is glider flying. Germany has turned to gliding. Well, the Olympics have included bicycle racing—that's partly a machine event—and boat racing. But it will be a new thing in developing sport, glider flying. It is the competitor who can go up in the air highest—and stay longest.

Baseball heroes of yesterday are soon forgotten. The greatest example is Walter Johnson. And how they go. That was a long time ago. Johnson, and the things he stands for in baseball, are bigger than the Cleveland or any other club.

Here is part of Johnson's illustrious record as hurler: Years with one club, twenty-one or more games per season, division of fifteen of them. . . Games in American League, 402. . . American League games won, 41. . . Won sixteen consecutive games in American League record. . . Won twenty-eight or more games per season in three successive seasons, thirty-two in 1912, twenty-six in 1913, and twenty-eight in 1914. . . Fifty-six consecutive shutouts. . . Pitched sixty games in which he was 1 to 0, winning forty and losing twelve. Grover Cleveland Alexander participated in thirty-one games of this character. Christy Mathewson, twenty-nine. . . Twice turned in a shutout in the opening quarter, when Bert Downey kicked forty yards to the right, and Johnson, who was roused back of his own goal line.

Although Johnson should not crop up in sport, Johnson was worthy of a better berth than he obtained from the Cleveland fans. He had a young club to start with, and he figured to be no better off than he was, roaring along like a prairie fire. Had Wesley Ferrell decided to come to terms with Johnson, and gave him a merry ride. Certainly, it was not coming to such an outstanding figure in baseball as the immortal Walter Johnson.

B.C. CHAMPS REACH BARRIE

New Westminster Salmonbellies on Scene of Canadian Lacrosse Final

Barrie, Ont., Oct. 4.—Predicting victory in three successive games, the New Westminster Salmonbellies into town to-day for the Mann Cup games, emblematic of the senior lacrosse championship of Canada. In the arena here to-morrow night they meet Orillia Terriers, eastern champions, in the first game.

We're going to beat them. Spring, the veteran manager and coach of the Salmonbellies, declared. "We didn't come down here for nothing. It's just about time we quit fooling with these easterners. Three straight games, that's us."

Possession of the trophy will be decided in the best three out of five games. The first three will be played in the arena here to-morrow, Monday and the following Friday night. It had been announced a fourth game, if necessary, would be played in Maple Leaf Gardens, Toronto, and should a fifth be needed it would take place in Orillia.

Dan K. McKenna, president of the Canadian Amateur Lacrosse Association, declared he was "in favor of taking the fourth or any other game to Montreal."

NERALOMAS WIN AGAIN

Score Third Straight Grid Victory at Expense of North Shore 6 to 1

Vancouver, Oct. 4.—Heading for their third consecutive British Columbia title, Neralomas hung up their third win in as many starts when they downed a fighting North Shore grid team 6 to 1 in a Big Four scheduled Canadian football fixture here yesterday evening.

Only the educated toes of Joe Ross and Bill Burston kept the North Shore from hanging up their first victory of the season. Their vaunted end runs and line plunges stopped dead by the deadly tackling of North Shore in the third quarter and another in the fourth, and on Burston, who added a defensive kick and a field goal in the fourth quarter.

North Shore scored their lone point in the opening quarter, when Bert Downey kicked forty yards to the right, and Johnson, who was roused back of his own goal line.

Will Have Fine Speed and Power Lacking Last Year; Varsity All Set

Vancouver Must Revise Rep Team

Like geometricians inadequately equipped with data, members of Victoria's rugby faithful have started to figure eagerly which of the three clubs will form the apex of this year's McKeechie Cup triangle, left with its base in the air through last year's unsatisfactory cancellation of the series.

Once again, in spite of last season's reports to the effect North Shore All-Blacks would make their appearance in the series, changing the Big Three to a Big Four league, the entries remain unaltered, with Victoria, Varsity and Vancouver forming the loop.

On the law of averages, it would appear high time Varsity staged a comeback as far as the prized silverware is concerned. It is many seasons since the golden emblem of rugby supremacy in the province, adorned the university's show case and the old football, presented by the last victorious team captain to his successor, is now but a perished, faded piece of leather.

Improved this year. Judging from current reports, the blue and gold horde this year promises to have a better challenging fifteen for the major honors than they have fielded for some seasons. Not since the days when Bertie Barratt, Phil Barrett, "Rat" Kestbrook, Phil Gilling, "Blood" Gustafson and that ilk unleashed speed and power to tear their way through opposing backfields, have the Varsity boys looked as good as material as they are available for this winter's campaign.

They have suffered heavily from graduation, that academic process which usually robs school teams of athletic stars, but several of the boys will be back in the forward lines and good fillers are available in the backfield.

Gone are Ken Mercer, Derry Tye, Arthur Pugh, Chris Dalton and Brand, but still among the active will be Allan Macer, Strat Gassett, Bobby Gault and Goumenouk in the backfield. With Tommy Roxborough making the surprising switch to that team, and Dave Carey, "Roxys" Roy, "Boys" who have been a handful to the "Blacks" brought out, furnishing the drive, the squad should make a very creditable showing. He should be a very worthy successor to Jack Bell, who has also withdrawn from the fold.

With the unique advantages enjoyed by a college team, the Varsity boys should prove quite a handful to Victoria and Vancouver squads. It looks definitely as if they were due to emerge from their cellar berth, where they have grown somewhat musty.

Quite a difference may be seen in the local line-up this year. Last season the Crimson Tide failed to show the speed, power and opportunism which carried them to the McKeechie Cup championship the preceding season. Games both here and in Vancouver in the last season only served to rub home the truth of the contention the Victorians had failed to find suitable substitutes for Lynn Patrick in the backfield, and Campbell Forbes in the scrum. This year the pair will again be lacking.

When selection time rolls around the men who choose the team will be up against a very difficult job. If the teams carry on as they did last year the selectors will be required to show reason for not including a majority of Fifth Brigade boys on the rep fifteen. If they pick most of the players from the Gunners, they will have a comparatively light team. Playing for the artillerymen, the boys last year showed a phenomenal speed and dash used to advantage in tactical games. If, however, the stars are split away from the main body, much of the effectiveness may be lacking.

"TERRIBLE GAME" SAYS FAMOUS DIZZY AFTER TURNING BACK DETROIT

Famous Pitcher of St. Louis Cardinals Declares He Was Far Below Form in First Game of World Series; Manager Frisch Praises Freshmen; Mickey Cochrane Disappointed

Detroit, Oct. 4.—Back in the St. Louis Cardinals' dressing room after yesterday's winning world series start against Detroit, the long, loose-jointed Dizzy Dean ambled over to his locker to pull off his shoes. Frankie Frisch, manager of the Cards, hustled over to warmly shake his hand. The other players followed.

Dean begged a cigarette from one of the gentlemen of the press before he amazed them with the statement that he had pitched a "terrible game."

"Boys," he said between puffs, "I'm telling you the truth when I'm telling you I was lousy in there to-day. That old curve ball of mine just wouldn't work. I couldn't do a thing with my fast one. That curve ball of mine wouldn't take off, it wouldn't go up or down, but it was a result. I had to pitch my head off. Ain't that a fact? Didn't I have those guys down to three-and-two lots of times?"

FRISCH CALM Manager Frisch took the victory calmly. He had praise for the freshmen of the team—first baseman Collins, catcher Delancy and Joe Medwick, the outfielder batting here

Howie Morenz Is Sent To Chicago

Montreal Canadiens Trade Brilliant Centre Player Along With Chabot and Burke For Lionel Conacher, Goldworthy and Jenkins; Biggest Hockey Deal in History

Montreal, Oct. 4.—Ranking as one of the greatest player deals in National Hockey League history, the mammoth trade between Chicago Black Hawks and Montreal Canadiens, with side trades involving Montreal Maroons and Boston Bruins, was completed and officially announced yesterday.

The deal: Canadiens send to the Stanley Cup holders, Chicago Black Hawks, Howie Morenz, outstanding center, Lionel Conacher, goal tender, and Marty Burke, defenseman.

Chicago sends to Canadiens Lionel Conacher, defenseman, Lew Goldworthy, forward, and Roger Jenkins, defenseman.

Canadiens give to Maroons Lionel Conacher and Herb Cain, and in return, Maroons announce all rights to Nelson Crutchfield, the star of McGill University's senior team last season. Cain, while he played with Maroons last season, was Canadiens' property until to-day's deal.

Canadiens exchange Johnny Gagnon for Joe Lamb of Boston Bruins, both being right-wingers.

These trades were announced by Leo Dandurand, managing director of Canadiens, and Tommy Gorman, vice-president of Maroons.

Canadiens plan to use Nelson Crutchfield at center of new line, with Jack McGill, another brilliant member of McGill University's team, at left wing, and Joe Lamb at right wing. Crutchfield and McGill had come to terms and he was scheduled to meet them both so that contracts would be signed.

Possibility that some further trades would develop out of the major deal was seen by Dandurand. He stated he was ready to make a cash offer for Crutchfield if the big red team would let the burly defense man go again. Dandurand also revealed he had received a cash offer for Crutchfield from the Black Hawks. Major Fred McLaughlin wanting to buy back the forward line he tossed into the six-player shift.

JOE MEDWICK IS PRAISED

One of Greatest Natural Hitters He Has Ever Seen, Says Casey Stengel

Detroit, Oct. 4.—As an old world series hero himself and the man now best known for his part in proving to the New York Giants that Brooklyn is still in the National League, Casey Stengel has a new kind words to say to-day for the St. Louis Cardinals in general and Joe Medwick in particular.

"I'm not insisting that the Cardinals 'put me in' on their world series roster," smiled the Brooklyn manager, "but my club helped them prove they are the best team in the National League and get the chance to win this world series. As for Medwick, he is liable to blow more of the Tigers down than the best of the greatest natural hitters I have seen in years."

Hitting star of the opening game against the Tigers with four booming home runs, including a homer, that tied a world series record, Medwick looked ripe for a stupor after what he set an all-time mark.

LINE PRAISES OF 1927 "It was not or not it was just a case of temporary 'buck fever,' brought on by an accumulation of events, the fact is no club has looked quite so good as the current Tigers at the outset of a big-money battle since the Pittsburgh Pirates of 1927 staggered into the National League championship game and then outbatted the New York Yankees in four consecutive world series games."

Mickey Cochrane, jittery athlete who may shake up the St. Louis blues to-day. They are a far better ball club than they looked against Dean, Medwick and company in the National League, and they have courage and resource in the "clutches" by the way they battered their way to the top of the American League but for the greatest natural hitter I have seen in years."

KNOCKOUT WIN FOR WALLACE

Vancouver Welterweight Puts Billy Overby, Spokane, Away in Fourth Round

Vancouver, Oct. 4.—Gordon Wallace, 135-pounding Vancouver welterweight, won the scheduled six-round main event on yesterday evening's card here, with a technical knockout over Billy Overby, Spokane, Wash., in the fourth round.

Both boys were fast in the first two rounds, and neither fighter seemed to have the edge. Overby came in fast in the third round and landed several hard rights to the face, but the Vancouver lad opened up a heavy body attack near the end of the round.

Wallace continued his two-fisted body attack in the fourth round until he got the Spokane battler groggy, then floored him with a hard left to the jaw. The referee began the count, but Overby's seconds threw in the towel.

Harry Peterson, Vancouver, and Jack Hubbard, Klamath Falls, Ore., drew in the six-round semi-final event.

Peterson had more speed and looked good in the first of the fight, but Hubbard's greater strength and heavy hitting wore him down in the last three rounds.

Navy, Hudson's Bay Win Midweek Games

Defeat Maccabees and Outer Wharf Rangers in Soccer Openers; Spencers and Garrison Draw in Third Engagement

While the stars of last season's play, Spencers and the Garrison, battled bitterly to a 2 to 2 draw, Navy and Hudson's Bay took a flying start in the opening games of the Hayward Cup Wednesday Soccer League series yesterday, defeating the Maccabees 5 to 1 and the Outer Wharf Rangers 3 to 1, respectively.

The Navy-Maccabees fixture was played at Admirals Road, while the other two were staged at the Athletic Park.

Coming from behind a 2 to 0 score twenty-five minutes after the game started, Spencers rallied nicely to net one counter before the rest interval and then booted in another in the second to even up the count in a great uphill battle.

Garrison went on the attack from the start and Stewardson in the merchant's net, was called upon to make several good saves as the Tommies closed in for smart shots at the end of nice combination movements.

MISKICKS
Ten minutes from the start Dick Bradley scored against his own team when he attempted to clear went into Spencers' goal.

Spencers rallied nicely to force into the Garrison territory where Warwick and Linsley, on the Tommies last line, cleared. The soldiers forwards picked up the ball and swung away on a pretty attack which ended when Miller drove a good shot past Stewardson for the Tommies' second tally.

Williams brought Spencers to within a goal of their opponents when he beat Glendenning with a stinging shot from outside the penalty area. The Garrison goalies fumbled badly and the ball rolled in.

SWITCH LINE
Spencers switched their line-up for the second half, sending Art Chapman to centre half, Bernie Clarke to centre forward and Eric Moe to full-back.

From that point the merchants had a decided edge, but could not make their numerous chances count.

Ten minutes from time Spencers equalized when Bobby Browne lifted a hook shot past Glendenning following a free shot near centre by Del Munroe.

Both teams tried hard to register the winning tally as the game drew to a close, but could not get through.

McMillan refereed and the teams follow:
Garrison—Glendenning, Linsley, Worswick, Wilkinson, Dyer, Featherstone, McAlister, Stewart, Miller, Edwards and Cook.

Spencers—Stewardson, Munro, Clarke, L. Bradley, Moe, D. Bradley, Browne, Richardson, Chapman, Williams and Chan.

BAYS VICTORS
Scoring all their goals in the opening camp, Hudson's Bay boys gained a comparatively easy win over the newly formed Outer Wharf Rangers team by a 3 to 1 score. In the second half the Rangers showed up well, but could not overcome the departmental lead.

Opening on the attack, Richards sent in a good shot, which "Scotty" Gelling deflected into the net for the Hudson's Bay opener five minutes from the start.

The departmentals had been playing with ten men for the first ten minutes, but reached full strength when "Tubby" Stevens took the field. He had been on about three minutes when he rifled in a first timer to put the greenshirts two up.

A short time before the rest interval, Don Fish put over a pretty corner and Wyatt headed in to the net for the Bay's final counter, while the Rangers were still scoreless.

COME TO LIFE
In the second half the Rangers came to life and kept their opponents' backs busy on a series of attacks. They were finally rewarded when Anderson got his foot to Gelling's cross for a first timer, which gave Baxter, between the sticks for the departmentals, no chance.

In spite of several other good attempts, the Rangers could not finish up their drives on the Hudson's Bay goal and the game ended with the departmentals on the long end of a 3 to 1 score.

Alcock refereed and the teams follow:
Hudson's Bay—Baxter, O'Connell, Okell, Oakman, Kennedy, Williamson, Fish, Wyatt, Stevens, Musgrave and Richards.

Outer Wharf Rangers—Bourne, Magee, Eastwood, White, Belford, S.

VANCOUVER GIRLS LOSE

Caroline Deacon and Eleanor Young Beaten in Coast Tennis Championships

Berkeley, Cal., Oct. 4.—Fred Perry, England, world's greatest amateur tennis player, and Lester Stofen, Los Angeles, United States Davis Cup ace, set the pace yesterday in fourth round men's singles matches of the Pacific Coast championships.

The two ranking favorites of the tournament won in decisive fashion, despite a letdown by Stofen which caused his match to go to an extra set.

Perry disposed of Martin Kennelly, San Francisco, 6-3, 6-3. The English ace took points every time he wished. Stofen defeated Wilmer Hines, Columbia, S.C., 6-0, 5-7, 6-3.

In the women's singles, two English favorites, Miss Freda James and Miss Betty Nuthall, won from fairly strong opponents. Miss James defeated Mr. R. M. Holt, Burlingame, 6-1, 7-5, in a third-round set-to, and Miss Nuthall eliminated Eleanor Young, Vancouver, B.C., 6-2, 7-5, in a second-round meeting.

WINE SECOND MATCH
Miss Young, however, continued in the running for the girls under eighteen title by defeating Catherine Trus, San Francisco, 6-3, 6-2, in a third-round meeting.

Frances Humphreys, Berkeley, won from Caroline Deacon, Vancouver, B.C., 6-8, 9-7, in a third-round encounter of the women's singles.

A men's upset match saw Leighton Crawford, England, defeated by Lester Stofen, Alameda, 6-2, 6-3, in the fourth round.

This section's hope in the men's singles, Don Budge, Oakland, advanced in a fourth-round engagement by winning from John Muro, San Francisco, 6-2, 6-1.

NAVY LOOKS GOOD
Fielding a team at full strength, the Navy swamped the Maccabees under a 5 to 1 score, securing four of their allies in the second half. The sailors were full value for their win, combining nicely and shooting well.

Maccabees played well in the first half, limiting the blue jackets to a single goal scored by Dave Marr. The clubmen tried hard and were dangerous at times, but could not complete their attacks.

Following the interval, Bannalack got through to score another goal with a hard drive to the corner and then pushed home the Navy's third after Graves had missed two chances.

MACCABEES TALLY
Fieldhouse gained the Maccabees' lone tally when he drove home a penalty given against McDonald for fouling Speller.

Walker offset the counter a few minutes later when he raced down the wing and shot in a long drive. Bruce Robinson closed the scoring with a long shot that caught the Maccabees' goalies napping.

Saunders refereed and teams follow:
Maccabees—Wilbur, Wallis, Blackstock, Hill, Fieldhouse, W. Graves, M. Speller and D. Newell.

Navy—Caldwell, Hilbert, Dorey, McDonald, Robinson, Hutton, Brown, Bannalack, Marr, De Costa and Walker.

Must Modify Rules Declares Sopwith

English Yachtsman Makes Startling Statement on Departure For Home From New York; Will Challenge For America's Cup Next Year If Regulations Are Changed

New York, Oct. 4.—The controversy over the America's Cup races, smoldering for eight days, yesterday burst into flame as T. O. M. Sopwith, skipper and owner of the defeated British challenger Endeavour, sailed for home charging violation of both construction and racing rules by the United States defender Rainbow.

The British yachtsman did not go into particulars and specifically exempted any one individual from his wrath, but said he would not come over again unless and until the present rules are modified.

"We are leaving America with very mixed feelings," he told reporters as he left for Southampton, with Mrs. Sopwith on the Aquitania. "We cannot help feeling terribly disappointed by being met over here with a vessel which we feel did not comply with the rules."

DIFFER ON RULES
"I would not for a moment accuse any official of the New York Yacht Club of acting in any way other than which he considered to be right. The answer is probably that we do not see eye to eye in the interpretations of some of the important conditions which were agreed on between the New York Yacht Club and the Royal Yacht Squadron."

Providing the weather holds, Victoria cricket enthusiasts will have a chance to see another post-season fixture at Beacon Hill Park on Saturday when a team skippered by Percy Payne, president of the Victoria and District League, meets one captained by N. F. Pite, secretary and captain of the championship winners, the Albions.

FIRST SOUR NOTE
The first sour note in the whole proceedings was struck before the first race by a writer for a British newspaper, who charged that Rainbow did not live up to the rules in her interior fittings.

Then Sopwith protested the fourth race, charging Harold S. Vanderbilt, head of the syndicate which built Rainbow, and her helmsman, did not give him sea room when he had the right-of-way. The protest was not even considered by the race committee, on the grounds that the Englishman did not hoist his protest flag promptly. Reasons for the double protest on the last race never were explained, as Sopwith withdrew his protest.

SEEK REFORM IN MEDICINE

Evidence of World-wide Change Seen By Dr. Harry Cassidy, Welfare Head

There is at present a movement abroad to bring about a world-wide medical reform and everywhere there is evidence of reorganization of medicine as a public industry. Dr. Harry M. Cassidy, superintendent of social welfare for British Columbia, told delegates to the seventeenth annual convention of the British Columbia Hospitals' Association at luncheon in the Jubilee Hospital Nurses' Home yesterday.

"To me this meeting is an expression of the movement for medical reform which is world wide. I have heard these questions of state health insurance and hours of duty for nursing staffs discussed at many different places during my recent travels and everywhere the problems are the same," Dr. Cassidy said in opening. In Toronto the situation paralleled that of the west. Revenues were falling off from private wards and indigent patients and the cost was showing great concern over these problems. Again alluding to the international aspect of the situation, Dr. Cassidy referred to the investigation of the committee on medical care made in 1928 at Washington. Quoting from its report issued in 1931 he pointed out where reference was made to crises which the non-governmental hospitals were facing. Their revenue was reduced and hospital costs could be cut no further without damage to efficiency.

In England there was criticism of the dual hospital system. Under the poor law there were hospitals for indigents. There were also institutions for middle class patients and the wealthy. Uniformity was now being sought, he said. To illustrate the situation which confronted English hospitals, he said he had seen one while in England this summer, that permitted advertising on the side of the building in an effort to raise funds.

STATE HEALTH INSURANCE
Another factor in evidence in the Old Country was the move to have national health insurance provide hospital benefits. Such action would mean the hospitals would receive a portion of national revenue, which they did not get at present.

"The basic problem everywhere is whether medicine shall be organized as a private or public industry. It is clear that private enterprise has not worked out and that the medical industry cannot be organized satisfactorily on a private basis," he said.

In all instances of private enterprise it has been necessary for the state to render assistance by either paying for indigents or subsidizing. Because of this, medicine was already partly organized as a public industry, he pointed out.

"How far shall we go in this change to a public industry? And how shall we undertake this reorganization?" asked Dr. Cassidy. In British Columbia notable steps had already been taken towards the solving of these questions.

The provinces boasted a well developed hospital system and several public nursing enterprises. The University of British Columbia was the first in the British Empire to establish a public health nursing course, and in many other respects B.C. had taken the lead, he said.

"Thus it can be seen from this that our work is a world-wide movement," said Dr. Cassidy.

ASSURES CO-OPERATION

In concluding, he assured the delegates of his sympathetic understanding of the hospitals situation in his official capacity and assured he would do his best to co-operate towards the building up of this service which had a sound basis and stood out pre-eminently in the British Empire and the world.

He was thanked by S. J. Drake, president of the board of directors of the Jubilee Hospital, who were hosts for the luncheon. On behalf of the provincial association, J. M. Coady, Vancouver, president, thanked the local organization for its hospitality.

HOSPITALS TO WATCH STEPS

Convention in Session Here Hears Adam Bell Discuss Hours of Work

Officials and directors of hospitals might render unnecessary any intervention by the Board of Industrial Relations by bringing about conditions of work for their employees which would conform with those laid down by the board, Adam Bell, chairman of the board and Deputy Minister of Labor, suggested in an address to the seventeenth annual convention of the British Columbia Hospitals Association here yesterday. Mr. Bell was the chief speaker at the afternoon session.

"I think we who are in charge of these institutions might do well to watch our step and see that we do not diverge too far from the orders laid down by the board, and take Mr. Bell's address as a warning," commented E. S. Withers, New Westminster, during the discussion which followed the talk.

The fact that he had been asked to address the convention had led to Mr. Bell's unmitigated concern over the hours of work and minimum wage orders which his board was considering.

LEGISLATION NOT NEW
To understand this type of legislation we should trace it back to its origin," he said. "It is no new matter, for many countries have embarked on policies of this description over long periods."

These policies had come to the fore recently however, he noted, but many countries had been hesitant in enacting them.

"In Canada we have had minimum wage laws since 1918, and they are enforced in every province except Prince Edward Island," he said.

Mr. Bell then launched into a detailed explanation of the application of the Hours of Work Act and the Minimum Wage Act.

Under the latest census showed 49,768 women working in British Columbia so that the orders covered 38 per cent of them. Under the Hours of Work Act more than half of the persons who came within its scope were regulated, while 77.9 per cent of industrial workers had been affected.

HOURS UNREGULATED
As far as hospital employees are concerned they are not appended within the scope of the Hours of Work Act," he said.

"Applications, however, have been received from employees, but the board has concentrated its efforts chiefly on industrial groups."

"It is not for me to suggest whether the board should include hospital employees, for this rests largely in the hands of those in control of these institutions. The board has no desire to intrude into industries, but when we receive applications from employees and employees we do so in a manner which encourages co-operation."

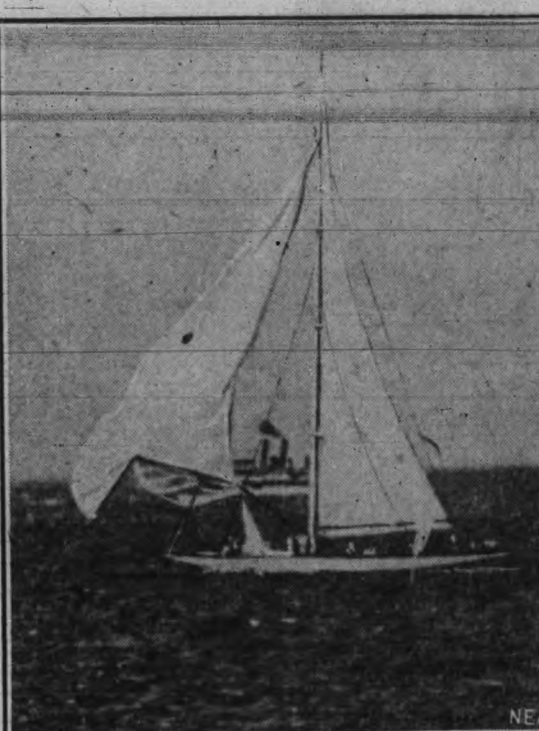

It was necessary sometimes, however, to intervene when no application had been made, although co-operation was generally sought. There were no regulations under the Male Minimum Wage Act applying to hospital employees, he continued. At this stage he explained that the act did not set wage scales, but empowered the board to make orders which set bases.

In regard to orders made for female workers, however, there were certain hospital employees who were affected by the orders, including office workers, laundry workers and those within the meaning of public housekeepers. In all instances where these came under the order of the board, the co-operation of hospitals' management had been received.

SPEEDY ADMINISTRATION

Mr. Bell recalled there had been certain criticisms regarding lack of action by the board and complaints it was not moving swiftly enough. Since its formation this year, there had been twenty-five meetings, five of which consisted of morning, afternoon and evening sessions. Fifteen

INSURANCE IS URGENT NEED

Many Troubles of B.C. Hospitals Would Be Improved By State Health Law

The need of state health insurance as a measure to meet the growing financial crisis which is confronting British Columbia hospitals was brought out strongly in a discussion during yesterday's session of the seventeenth annual convention of the B.C. Hospitals Association at the Empress Hotel.

Started by the inquiry, "Should the small hospital be obliged to accept charity patients when no provision is made for payment of cost?" it was evident the delegates generally conceded that further financial assistance from some source is necessary to finance hospitals.

In many cases the losses in revenue were attributed to failure of municipalities without hospitals to pay their per diem costs of patients in outside institutions, while some delegates favored approaching the provincial government to broaden the scope of the section under the Hospitals Act which provides for extra grants to isolated hospitals only.

PERCENTAGE OF PAYMENTS LOW
William Morley, Vernon, asked the question, and said that in his area the percentage of charges collected was so low that he thought it would bring recognition from the government.

S. M. Cozier, Kamloops, stated that over a period of two years 65 per cent of the patients there were from unorganized areas and only 40 per cent of these paid for treatment. The government contribution, he argued, was not sufficient to pay for the remainder.

Dr. A. S. Lamb, Vancouver, claimed the deficit was due to the private ward and middle class patients. The contributions of the government towards the treatment of every patient entering a hospital made up the deficit shown in the indigent cases, he said.

J. H. McVety, Vancouver, stated that while some municipalities with hospitals objected to paying per diem charges to outside hospitals, their patients were treated, he did not think the municipalities without hospitals were paying enough. Many of these latter municipalities were failing to make provision for their sick as required under the Municipal Act, he said.

In this contention he was supported by J. H. McVety, Vancouver, who stated that while some municipalities with hospitals objected to paying per diem charges to outside hospitals, their patients were treated, he did not think the municipalities without hospitals were paying enough. Many of these latter municipalities were failing to make provision for their sick as required under the Municipal Act, he said.

ADVOCATE NEW CLAIMS OFFICE
Prospectors in Sturgeon Gold Field in Ontario Want Quick Recording

Ontario Press
Jellicoe, Ont., Oct. 4.—Prospectors, engineers, geologists, operators and old-timers of the north who have joined the Sturgeon River gold rush are agitating for the opening of a special claim-recording office at this base town for the greatest prospecting and staking activity Canada has ever known.

Every claim must be recorded in a short time with the mining recorder for the district, situated at Fort Arthur, 100 miles west and south of the main field operations. Railway service from the camp has been slow, although improvements have been made recently. As a result it is often difficult for the prospector who has staked a new group of claims to make his way to the place of recording.

PETITION SIGNED
In the hope of improving conditions a petition was drawn and set in motion by Karl Springer, one of Sturgeon's best-known prospectors and mineral explorers who is heavily interested in several promising groups of properties in the camp. In a short time several pages were filled with the names of principal figures of the rush—and of Canadian mining—strengthening the need for relief.

Opening of such a recording office or sub-office would obviate the necessity for numerous visits to Fort Arthur on the part of discoverers of finds and would enable them to emerge from and return to the bush within a period of hours instead of days.

Get a Strangle Hold on Worry

A well-known doctor has suggested the necessity of getting a strangle hold on worry. If you don't get worry, worry will get you. Worry robs the system of the vital nerve force. You become down-hearted and discouraged. Digestion fails and you cannot rest or sleep. You lose courage and initiative. The future is full of clouds and discouragement. But you can conquer worry. Along with other threatening symptoms of serious nervous troubles, By using Dr. Chase's Nerve Food. Gradually and naturally the enriched blood brings back health and vigor to the nerves and makes you feel fine. The silver lining of the clouds appears and you conquer worry.

COMPETITIVE RATE
Mr. McVety also attributed the financial situation of some hospitals to themselves. By competing on contracts with various federal government departments they were actually showing losses on these contracts and then asking the municipalities and government to meet their losses. In this he alluded to the various federal departments which contract hospitals to handle their sick. He maintained there should be a standard rate for these treatments.

William Morley, Vernon, claimed this was not the case. The rates were forced on the hospitals who could not refuse to accept patients. It was merely a case of taking what the federal government would give in these cases.

E. S. Withers, New Westminster, suggested bringing the matter to the attention of the government and it was intimated at the afternoon session that a resolution might be forwarded through the resolutions committee, to meet the situation.

VICTORIA WEST Y.P.S.

The regular meeting of the Victoria West United Y.P.S. was held on Tuesday evening, with the president, Jack Price, in charge. Mr. Milley read a chapter of the book "The Man Nobody Knows." Plans for the play for the coming drama festival were made, and also were discussed for the table tennis club which is being organized. Mr. Milley introduced the guest speaker for the evening, Rev. Chow Ling of the Chinese United Church, who gave a most interesting talk on "The Work of the Local Chinese and China," which was greatly enjoyed by the good showing of members and friends.

Next Tuesday a mystery trip will be held and all young people are requested to meet at 8 o'clock sharp in the church hall.
